(TMI Focus, Vol. XIV, No. 3, Summer 1992)

DOLPHIN ENERGY CLUB

by Julie Mazo

DEC activity continues at a rapid pace. New requests to receive DEC energy, and feedback from earlier requests, come in almost daily. Among the fascinating and affirming outcomes of this activity are indications that a number of DEC members are “picking up” significant information about the individuals to whom they send healing energy. When I ask DEC to go into action on behalf of a certain individual, the only information I give is a first name—nothing more about the subject—no diagnosis, physical description, or anything else. One recipient of DEC energy was a woman who had had a stroke incapacitating the left side of her body. DEC members, of course, didn’t know that, but their reports included statements such as “I could only... (deal with) her left side; it was very difficult for the dolphin to put energy on both sides”; and “... a shadow on the left side of her face.”

Other DEC members reported about this person, “She tried to be strong enough to assume too many responsibilities,... too much giving of self; needs to be more concerned with herself,” and other statements describing the same general pattern. Her husband tells me that these descriptions are absolutely accurate. He also reports some improvement in her mobility and her mental state, and that she has been experiencing a strong desire to dance. Is any of this related to her having received DEC energy? We can’t draw such a conclusion, but continue the work.

Hemi-Sync® is a registered trademark of Interstate Industries, Inc.
© 1992 The Monroe Institute